ABOUT ME

I have found acting late on in life following a near death experience from sepsis in 2019. This, coupled with losing my partner to cancer and working 18 years in the NHS, has profoundly shaped my understanding of vulnerability, resilience, and the fragility of life. These experiences enable me to root each of my characters in truth and authenticity. I am a collaborative actor who is kind, empathetic and generous. I balance my passion for acting with my NHS career, two children, and a chocolate Labrador, all of whom keep me grounded.
